

OPPORTUNITIES ACROSS LONDON

Join the Safer Transport Command as a volunteer police officer

Safer Transport Command (STC) is funded in partnership with Transport for London (TfL) and has responsibility for all transport policing within the Metropolitan Police Service (MPS). Join us as a special constable and you could get involved in either of the following areas:

SAFER TRANSPORT TEAMS (STT)

The majority of Safer Transport Specials work on the 32 borough-based STTs and help police the local transport system by reducing crime, anti-social behaviour and increasing public confidence. Although focusing primarily on the bus network, STT officers also work in partnership with the British Transport Police (BTP) in and around train, tram and underground stations to provide additional reassurance to staff and passengers. STTs also support TfL's wider aims around walking, cycling, road safety and traffic flow. Predominantly, they work days and late shifts throughout the week, but duties are flexible enough to meet local need.

STC OPERATIONAL SUPPORT GROUP (STC OSG)

The STC OSG is a specialist team of volunteer police officers, supported by dedicated regular staff, who deal with emerging crime and disorder issues across the transport system. It works from two bases: one at Palestra¹ on the Westminster/Southwark borders; the other at King's Cross. The team works predominantly in central London on Friday and Saturday nights but can deploy at other times and in other areas as required. In addition to weekend team duties, additional mid-week shifts are available to help officers progress more quickly towards independent patrol status. STC OSG officers can also benefit from additional training such as driving, cycling and plain clothes skills.

WHY SHOULD I CONSIDER A ROLE WITHIN SAFER TRANSPORT?

- Safer transport is important to all Londoners, so your contribution will make a real difference.
- You will be provided with clear objectives, allowing you to produce results you can see and take pride in.
- You will receive specialist transport training above and beyond that provided to other special constables.
